SALARY ORDINANCE MEETS WITH HIS DISAPPROVAL.

Says Needs of the Department Should Be Brought Before the Council in Separate Ordinances-Omnibus Mensure Disapproved.

Mayor Jones yesterday vetoed the omnibus salary ordinance in one of the severes messages he has yet transmitted to the council. The technical ground on which the ordinance was vetoed is that an amendment offered by Alderman Brown, of the upper house, was missing when the measure pass ed the lower house, but the mayor goes farther and criticises the ordinance severely. It is hardly probable that the council will override the veto, as there are several members of the upper house who would vote against the measure as a whole and the ordinance was passed in the lower house by a party vote of 8 to 6. The ordinance provided for an increase in the expenditures of the city of $10,000 per year. Separate ordinances embodying a portion of the provisions of the vetoed measure will be ingroduced at the meeting of the council Monday night: The mayor's veto is as members of the upper house who would cil Monday night: The mayor's veto is as "To the Honorable Common Council, Gentlemen:--I herewith return ordinance No 10216, entitled 'An ordinance providing for and fixing the salaty of additional em-ployes, and fixing the salary of certain other employes in the various city depart-ments,' without my approval, for the folother employes in the various city departments, without my approval, for the following reasons:

"It appears that two amendments to the ordinance were made in the upper house; one offered by Alderman Beardsley, which struck out that portion of section 1 of the ordinance providing for one cashier in the city treasurer's department at $1,350 per annum. The other amendment was offered by Alderman Brown, and provided for the appointment of two additional clerks in the city auditor's department at a salary of $372 per annum, each. Alderman Brown's amendment further changed the fifth line of section 2 by adding after the word 'treasurer's' the words 'and city auditor's,' so as to make the section in harmony with references made in that section to section 1.

Finance Committee's Omission. "It seems that when this ordinance first went into the lower house, all of these amendments were read to the lowamendments were read to the lower house in their detached form —not being embodied or written ino the original ordinance—but contained on separate papers, as written by Aldermen Beardsley and Brown. The whole ordinance as thus amended by the upper house swas then referred to the lower house finance committee, who took all the documents embodying the amendments of Aldermen Beardsley and Brown, together with the original ordinance, as at first formulated, into their possession. The finance committee of the lower house in making their report, however, omitted to make any changes in the original ordinance necessary to have it correspond with the amendments offered by Aldermen Beardsley and Brown. In the debate which ensued over the report of the finance committee of the changes in the original ordinance necessary to have it correspond with the amendments offered by Aldermen Beardsley and Brown. In the debate which ensued over the report of the finance committee of the lower house, the chairman of the lower house finance committee or the lower house finance committee or the lower house finance committee stated orally what Alderman Beardsley's amendment was and produced the original written amendment formulated by Alderman Beardsley. The other amendment, however, offered by Alderman Brown, providing for two additional clerks in the city auditor's office at $972 per annum each, was not presented to the lower house, as I understand the matter, for consideration. In the commotion incident to debate on the proposition, these amendments of Alderman Brown seem to have been overlooked, and unintentionally omitted by the members of the lower house finance committee in presenting the ordinance to the lower house. And fairness to that body, and to the council, would indicate that an opportunity for a full consideration and proper information be accorded to all members of the lower house, under these circumstances, not having voted upon these amendments, places the ordinance in such a shape that I do not believe it to have been legally enacted; but whether or not from a technical legal standpoint the matter is wrong, it is not morally right that a law should be passed in this way. In my opinion, Alderman Brown's amendment cannot be considered to have been adopted by the lower house at the time of the passage of the ordinance.

"It is not my desire to substitute my judgment for that of the council with reference to this matter; but I think it is my duty to accord the common council the fullest opportunity to act intelligently on all of the propositions involved in the ordinance.

A Cumbersome Measure.

A Cumbersome Measure.

"I may add by way of suggestion, that seems to me many cogent reasons exist why the claims of the different departments should be presented separately by separate ordinances for your consideration, in the matter of additional employes, and that presenting them all in one omnibus ordinance is a cumbersome and an inefficient manner of consideration of the propositions involved. Some propositions might be regarded as more meritorious than others, and, if presented separately, might receive more favorable consideration than if linked with less desirable claims.

"It is not my intention at this time to enter into the merits of the various requests of the different departments for additional help. The only restriction which I would recommend would be that in no case should any person be employed unless there is a well sustained demand for his services in order to conduct the business of the city in a proper and efficient manner; and to that end, I request the most careful scrutiny on the part of the council, which I think can better be accomplished by separate ordinances, as above indicated.

"Owing to the fact that at certain seawhy the claims of the different departments oy separate ordinances, as above indi-casted.

"Owing to the fact that at certain sea-sons of the year the volume of business transacted in some of the offices decreases to such an extent as to render a large force of employes unnecessary. I think it would be well to bear in mind that during other seasons when the volume of business increases to such a degree as to require more numerous employes, in these busy seasons we might employ extra help to cover the temporary press of business, and thereby avoid the necessity of a larger regular force. Respectfully,

"JAMES M. JONES, Mayor.

The remaining $1,900 required to carry the sewer beyond the Bryant school will be taxed against the district, according to present plans, though Speaker Burrows is making a hard fight to have the city pay it. Councilman Beroth appeared before board of public works yesterday and asked that the city do the work of paving Brook street from Twenty-fourth and Fairmount to Nineteenth and Wyoming at its own expense. The work will cost about $10,000, and the property abutting on the street is unable to bear the cost of paving. Brook street is an important outlet from the West bottoms. Comptroller Lund appeared before the board of public works yesterday and protested against granting to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company the right to set electric line poles on that portion of Sum-mit street to be traversed by the Broad-way line. Mr. Lund claims that the com-pany cannot maintain both electric and cable cars on the same street. Several property owners have joined in the protest, but as the company has not yet asked for the authority to place its poles on the street there was nothing for the board to do.

"I never said that I intended to be a candidate for re-election on an independent ticket, and I have never said a dozen other things that have been attributed to me."

"Why is it that other warrants for saloonkeepers who have violated the Sunday laws have not been served?" he was asked.

"Well, I don't know that I care to talk about the matter at all. The fact is that I have laid out a well defined plan, and I intend to follow it to the end. I am not going to be hasty in any way, and when a intend to follow it to the end. "That's another thing that I know nothing about. All I know is," and Mr. Lowe glanced at his watch, "that the Blues are in the lead and I am going out to the game this afternoon and root for them," and he would say nothing further.

The quiescent condition that has existed for the past two days is unchanged, and it is assured that there will be no developments until after Sunday. It is probable that a number of saloons will remain closed te-morrow: but the action of the large majority of them will depend largely upon the outcome of the meeting of the Liberal League which is to be held this morning.

MANY OFF FOR OMAHA

SIX TRAINS CARRY KANSAS CITYANS TO THE EXPOSITION.

They Will Arrive There This Morning and the Show and Town Will Be Turned Over to Their Rule for One Day.

Kansas City people went up on six different trains to spend Kansas City day at the Omaha exposition. The crowds wanting tickets were so great yesterday that it was found the regular trains could not carry them and in addition to the special train which the Port Arthur people had arranged for both the Missouri Pacific and the Burlington had to run out extra trains. The trains left Kansas City from 8:30 to 10 o'clock last night and will reach Omaha this morning from 6 to 9 o'clock. Trains will be held until after the fireworks tonight to accommodate those who desire to return home, but probably the majority of the visitors will not return until Sunday or Monday night. The programme at Omaha to-day includes an address of welcome by the mayor with response by ex-Governor Crittenden, special parades by the Indian congress and special illuminations and fireworks. The Omaha people will make a great effort to make everything pleasant for the Kansas

The Missouri Pacific last night ran cut wo trains to Omaha. Colonel Jewett, city passenger and ticket agent, was with the pecial train and over this line went ex-Governor Crittenden and his party and many members of the Commercial Club, board of trade and other organizations. A noticeable party was in one Pullman, which was entirely filled by young women stenographers and clerks from the Exchange over the Buriington, which also ran two sections, went the city officers and city council and many members of the Live Stock exchange and other organizations. General Southwestern Agent H. L. Harmon accompanied the special section, which was composed entirely of sleepers and chair cars.

was composed entirely of sleepers and chair cars.

All three roads had many passengers not members of any of the organizations and there were large numbers who took advantage of the low rate and went in the chair cars without reserving sleepers.

The special train over the Port Arthur route was in charge of General Passenger Agent H. C. Orr. This train ran through without stops and carried the Manufacturers' Association, which was the only organization making a special feature of going in a body. As an indication that its members know enough to come in out of the wet each one carried an umbrella, while all wore, in addition to the general blue Kansas City day badge, a small plak badge with the words "Manufacturers' Association." The manufacturers took Blackburn's band with them and the band made a little parade on the way to the train. As the special pulled out at $:30 the band played "There'll Be a Hot Time," and Vice President Berkowitz and Secretary Winsborough were observed in the "commissary" baggage car frantically shouting:

Hurrah for our glorious nation And the Manufacturers' Association, K. C., U. S. A. Hurrah!

Back in the smoking car of one of the sleepers President Dickey had a double male quartette, which he was drilling in a song they are to sing in Omaha to-day. The tune was "Sidewalks of New York" and the words were:

Down in old Missouri
in a city called K. C.,
There's a band of manufacturers
As busy as can be;
Working all together
To make their city great,
While everything is lively
in old Missouri state,

CHORUS. East side, West side,
All around the town,
You'll find our factories running
And we're doing things up brown,
Working all together
As lively as can be,
And you can find just what you want
In that city called K. C.

We've come to the exposition
For we beard a mighty blow,
But we are from Missouri
And us you'll have to show,
Treat us very kindly,
For if good to us you'll be,
We'll show you all a jolly time
When you come to K. C.
CHORIS. CHORUS.

Though very young in age,
Is "up to date" in everything
And in wisdom very sage.
We have two hundred members
And gaining rapidly,
For we've lots of manufacturers
In the city called K. C.
CHORES.

CHORUS.

Sergeant-at-Arms Clough yesterday received the following characteristic letter from Mayor Moores, of Omaha, which gives a slight idea of the welcome which awaits the Kansas City visitors:

"W. A. Wilson and ex-Mayor Moore inform me that the mayor and city council of your city, accompanied by ex-Governor Crittenden and wife, will arrive at 8 a. m. Saturday. This is the best hour for 'youens' or 'weuns,' as the regular hour, 6 o'clock, is too beastly early for comfort. Therefore, we shall meet you with carriages and take you to the Millard for breakfast. After taking a drink-of water-or two, about 10 o'clock our carriages will take you to the auditorium at the exposition grounds, where, after possibly a prayer and some music, a short address of welcome will be given by your Uncle Fuller, and I shall also present your honorable mayor with the golden keys of this city and turn everything over to you folks from "Mizzoura." Following response by your mayor or Governor Crittenden, then possibly another short address from President Wattles, representing the exposition: a little more music, then dismissed. About 2 o'clock I want you people to take carriages and accompany me and our city officials to the Millard for lunch, after which we will pull off your shoes and let you all run on pasture. You are strictly the guests of the mayor and city officials of Omaha, and the exposition people and our Commercial Club is arranging to take care of the rest of your fellow citizens."

BOY GIANT AT THE DEPOT John Bender, of Nebraska, 16 Years Old, Is Seven Feet

High. John Bender, of Nebraska, seven feet tall and only 16 years old, stalking up and down the Union depot platform between trains yesterday morning, attracted more attention from the other travelers than would the chance appearance of the late candidate for the presidency from his state, Colonel W. J. Bryan. Bender was the wonder of the people of average height, the admiration of the tall men and the terror of the children, while the newsboys inquired from a safe distance, "Say, mister, is it cool up there where your head is?"
